

Hawaii Surf Team Selection 2018

The Hawaii Surf Team is building the next world championship team and this is your opportunity to be a part of it. The Hawaii coaches (Rainos Hayes, Jason Shibata, Kekoa Bacalso, and Bert Ishimaru) have lead the team to the medal podium every year and they are holding a 2 day selection camp to start building next year's team and develop future teams to perpetuate the aloha spirit and bring home the gold. This is an opportunity to work with some of Hawaii's best coaches and improve your surfing, contest preparation, and strategies. This is also a chance to learn what the judges at an international level are looking for and how to fulfill the scoring criteria. With this training selection, next year's team and the teams to come will be ready to take on the surfing world at the next level!

The Hawaii Surf Team selection process will determine the qualifying squad comprised of six Boys U18, six Boys U16, four Girls U18, and four Girls U16. The qualifying squad will participate in the training camps through the rest of the season and the final active squad of four Boys U18, four Boys U16, two Girls U18, and two girls U16 will be picked during summer. The Vissla ISA World Junior Championships will be held in October and the location is still being determined.

Below are the four elements that make up the HST Selection Criteria, these elements will be used in all camps and will ultimately determine the final team:

- International ISA, WSL Star and Pro Junior events along with results in the Surfing America Championships and NSSA National Championships along with results in the HSA State Championships, NSSA Regional Championships with consideration of ratings from HSA, NSSA, and WSL Pro Junior events.
- The ability to produce excellent scores.
- The ability to process information, accept feedback, follow directions and adapt to both changing situations and conditions. Coach-ability.
- Attitude, Maturity, and the ability to work with others, all while perpetuating the "Aloha Spirit"!
